OWNERS

PETER YANG AND MIKE WU

Born in China and raised in San Diego, brothers Peter Yang and Mike Wu have continued to uphold their parent's tradition in the restaurant industry with ownership of Mongolian Hot Pot—a traditional Chinese style hot-pot eatery.

With a loyal customer base, the brothers decided to launch a concept of their own, resulting in the creation of Shabu Works. Located in Mira Mesa, the “All You Can Eat” Shabu-Shabu dining experience offers a bold and sleek design, and features the brothers have grown accustomed to, such as signature service and quality ingredients.

“We are extremely proud to bring Shabu Works to the Mira Mesa community,” the brothers share. Both attended high school in Mira Mesa and spent a decade residing within the community.

Together, Peter and Mike have elevated their brotherly bond with the ownership of both businesses, which has been a launch pad for their business endeavors. “Exercising our creativity and challenging our limits together has been the most rewarding aspect of this experience,” they admit.

In their spare time, Peter and Mike can be found enjoying family time and exploring new destinations around the world!
